

MACLEOD FAIR

2 GALA DAYS—MANY ENTRIES—SUPERLATIVE ATTRACTIONS

PIONEER DAY PROGRAM AT ORTON BIG SUCCESS

Pioneer day, July 24 was celebrated here by the entire community and the program for the day was carried out quite successfully from every angle excepting in the children's amusements, where an accident occurred, when Wallace Orr, young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Orr fell off a teeter totter and either broke or sprained his arm.

The success of the day's entertainment was largely due to the interest of the various committees who had charge of the different attractions.

At eleven o'clock a large audience assembled at the school house and were well entertained, seemingly, by the following program:

Opening song, by congregation; "Utah the Queen of the West"; song, "Come, Come Ye Saints"; opening remarks by F. J. Svenson; reading, Ernest Orr; song, Delta and Helen Sillito; literary selection, Cassie McMurray; story, Bishop W. R. Parker; mandolin solo, P. McMurray; recitation, Anna Svenson; literary selection, Myrtle Parker; song, Joseph Sillito; recitation, Lawrence Sillito; boys' chorus by Boy Scouts; recitation, Freda Svenson; pioneer reminiscences by Caroline Orr; speech, Josiah Orr; closing song, "God Be With You"; benediction, Geo. Sillito.

A splendid lunch was served at the school house, also a good supply of lemonade.

The afternoon attractions were pulled off on the village square where a bower was built by the Boy Scouts which furnished a haven of rest for those who were not busy with the various features of the program.

The races and baseball were the principle attractions of the afternoon. Monarch came over short handed and made up the shortage from the fans here and had a rather uneven game the score resulting 9 to 3 in favor of the home boys.

Regina, on Thursday, following his conviction on a charge of committing an indecent assault upon "Mildred," a member of his troupe.

It transpired at the trial that Mildred was not Ritchie's wife, although they had been living together for several months. Ritchie admitted he had a wife and child somewhere in the U. S.

Ritchie cried like a baby while the trial was in progress, and the magistrate referred to him as the biggest coward he had ever seen. Mildred has been sent home to her parents, who reside at Nanaimo, B. C.

AN ALL-STAR CAST IN A KNOCKOUT STORY

Here's a cast that is all-star in every sense of the word—with three handsome leading men in one picture—and that's something!

Rod La Rocque, Ricardo Cortez and Allan Simpson play principal supporting roles opposite Gloria Swanson in her new Paramount picture, "A Society Scandal," an Allan Dwan production to be shown at the Empress Theatre on next Monday and Tuesday.

Surely you remember La Rocque in William de Mille's "Don't Call It Love" and in the other famous movies with him. In "The Call of the Canyon" and "The Next Corner"? But who is this Simpson fellow, you say? Shame on you! Why he's the man who made the collar and famous, was in "The Glimpses of the Moon" and with Bebe Daniels in "The Exciters."

An that's not the half of it. Here's a few in the supporting cast which makes the leading players step some to win the laurels. Mr. Ida Waterman, a stage and screen actress of the old school, Thelma Morgan Converse, prominent Society matron making a try of the picture game, Fraser Coalter, Yvonne Hughes, Catherine Practor and a host of others. How's that for a cast?

Even if the story wasn't much to talk about, "A Society Scandal" would go across big on the merits of the cast alone—but what a story it is! And it's all about New York and the fashionable homes of the rich on Long Island. See Southampton where the social loungers have their tea and cake, ultra modern week-end with all her great acting skill shown in "Zaza" and "The Humming Bird" besides.

Now that we've told you something about it, if you miss it it's your own fault. But it's a safe bet you won't miss it.

"He promised to bring me a bunch of blue ribbons."

No doubt there will be many such promises, made during the next few days, from the many exhibitors, who are showing their splendid specimens of horses, cattle and other stock at the Macleod Fair, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Not only is there blue ribbons to be won, but many other valuable prizes in cash and kind. Also there is one sure thing every "Johnny" who exhibits, or makes entry for any class in the Macleod Annual Fair and Exhibition, will have every opportunity of winning a prize, as it is a square deal for all, and the best man will win.

The Fair this year promises to be one of the best in every way, both as to exhibits and attractions.

There is an A. I. program of sports and races, with attractive prize list that will bring many entries from owners of thoroughbreds, and there are other equally attractive awards for running races, tug-of-war, and athletic events. One of the main attractions is the big baseball tournament, which will feature two games each day of the Fair, and every game will be worth seeing, a real battle to the finish.

Arrangements are already made for jollification during the evenings of the Fair days, these are in the capable hands of the girls of the Scarlet and Gold Club, who will look after things in this line at the Big Hudson's Bay dance pavilion on 24th Street, also the now famous Macleod

Brass Band will give special programs of up-to-date music both on Wednesday and Thursday.

The President, Secretary and other officials are now working hard to make Macleod 1924 Annual Fair, the best ever, and it will be, if the residents of Macleod and district will get behind in solid formation and BOOST.

All particulars regarding the Fair and Sport program, can be furnished, and will be given on asking Secretary Gardiner, or phoning up his office, on Main Street.

Don't forget by paying one dollar and a half, you can secure a year's membership to the Macleod Agricultural Society, also it assures you free admission to the Grand Stand and Grounds at any time, and as many times as you please during the two days of the Fair. This membership ticket business is worthwhile considering, as it is a great convenience, also a money saver.

Don't forget the Date, Wednesday and Thursday August 6th and 7th. Two big glorious days, when Macleod district can show with pride their grand display of the best in the West, in cattle, horses, pigs, sheep, poultry, every class of stock, and their wonder productions in grains, grasses and other classes.

Get your entries in Mr. Exhibitor, and bring home the ribbons from the Macleod 1924 Fair.

THE OUTSTANDING SCREEN SENSATION OF THE CENTURY!

A Breathtaking Battle With An Enraged 90 Ton Bull Whale in a Tale Replete With Thrills, Romance and Adventure, Makes Elmer Clifton's "Down to the Sea in Ships" an Unquestionable Masterpiece

Few motion pictures that have ever found their way to successful completion have been attempted on the scale with which the Waling Film Corporation has produced "Down to the Sea in Ships," the Hodgkinson super-spectacle which comes to the Empress theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

The outstanding fact in conjunction with the filming of this picture which serves to make it unique in the field, is that it is one of the few productions in the history of motion pictures that has for its locale the tempestuous waters of the high seas, and the principal character in this breath-taking drama of the Atlantic is a ninety-ton whale. Nature has provided not only a background utterly impossible to imitate through any trick of photography, but it places in this setting an enraged leviathan of the deep, stung to fury by a deeply embedded harpoon.

The great moment in "Down to the Sea in Ships" comes when the whale, realizing the futility of escape, turns on his captors, sweeps one side of the boat, leaving but the stumps of broken oars in the hands of the fear-stricken crew. The harpoon is still embedded deeply in the back of the whale and in one last effort to rid it self of the life taking iron, the giant mammal of the deep swims off to a distance of several hundred feet, turns, hesitates an instant, and then charges the boat with the speed and force of the fastest express. It is only a matter of seconds until the whale has hit the boat square in the middle, smashing it to bits and tossing its crew into the air. Sharks are plainly seen ready to strike the instant any of the crew touch the water.

Back of all this action, however, is one of the most appealing love stories revealed on the screen.

At this point, there begins one of the most hair-raising scenes ever recorded by a motion picture machine. Tearing at express speed straight for the broad Atlantic, the whale sets off in a dash for freedom. There have been many hairbreadth escapes to add thrills to motion pictures, but in practically all of them there have been due precautions taken to guard against accidents, but in "Down to the Sea in Ships," McKee and his boatmen face a situation beside which the stunts of the average screen daredevil fall into insignificance.

Utterly beyond the reach of the mother boat and 3,000 miles of deep water before them, their only course is to stick to the boat until the efforts of their capture cease. Subsequently, two other boats are able to attach lines to the leading whaleboat and for hours the whale tows a weight estimated at 5,000 pounds through the water at a speed almost inconceivable.

This entire action takes place before the eyes of the astounded audience. Every foot of it rings with the dangers of the sea and is permeated with the tank of salt air. There is nothing posed or forced or staged from the time the action starts to the finish of the harpoon, the whale comes to the surface and gives up the fight. It is realism raised to a degree that has heretofore been undreamed of in screen productions. It is the kind of picture that took eight weeks of constant cruising in the whaling area of the Caribbean Sea before a catch was made. It is the kind of picture that probably will never be made again, not only because of the enormous dangers attending it, but because of the thousand and one difficulties that beset the director and his assistant from the very outset of the cruise.

In the handling of the story, the scenario of which was written by John L. E. Pell, of Great Barrington, Mass., Mr. Clifton has revealed an ingenuity that departs sharply from the traditional use of motion picture material. He has never lost sight of the first requirement of a screen production, that it shall be above all things, entertaining, and the thread of the love story that begins under the ancient yardarm in New Bedford Harbor is never for an instant broken even in the tempestuous waters of mid-Atlantic. In fact, "Down to the Sea in Ships" would still be a great picture without the hair-raising series of events which beset the ship and her crew a few hours after New Bedford light disappeared beyond the horizon.

Leigh R. Smith was Mr. Clifton's assistant. Alex G. Penrod was head cameraman on the cruise, assisted Albert Doubrava. The whaling ship was in charge of James A. Tilton, by Paul Allen, Maurice E. Kaine and

BIG IMPROVEMENTS IN BUILDING

The new postmaster will have the privilege of being the first master, in charge of the new Post Office. The building which is situated in what was formerly the Callie Block, has been fitted with the most up-to-date contrivances and fixtures for a modern Post Office, and great credit is due to J. S. Lambert the Contractor for his work on this building.

Mr. Lambert has also received the contract for remodelling the interior of the Courthouse, which work will be commenced right away.

The refreshment rooms for the Queen's Hotel, will shortly be completed, and the remodelling of this part of the building will be a great improvement to the Hotel.

Alterations have now been completed in the Leather Block, and Mr. Leathers Office is now situated next to that of J. W. McDonald K.C., in the front part of the building, the entrance to both offices being on the north side of the hallway, upstairs.

C. P. R. VICE-PRESIDENT BOOSTS MACLEOD DISTRICT

"We saw some magnificent crops today. If all the west were as well off in that regard there would be no need for any of us to worry about the winter."

Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made the above statement Monday evening just before departing for the east. Mr. Hall, who has been at the coast, reached Macleod on Monday forenoon. From there the party went by motor south to the Hillspring and Glenwoodville in the United Irrigation district, thence to Cardston and to Lethbridge. It was to the crops he saw on his motor tour that he made reference. Mr. Hall intimated that there was nothing better to be seen in the west. So green are they that his only doubt was whether they would ripen.

With regard to crops in the west generally he said they were very "spotted" and it would be hard to make an estimate. He might give out a statement on his arrival in Winnipeg.

Spying Out New Branch? It is generally understood that Vice President Hall and party visited the country south of Macleod and west of Cardston with reference to the branch line which is under consideration for that section, surveys for which are now being made, but they did not care to comment on the company's plans on this occasion.

The new road through the Lethbridge Northern is making rapid progress, Mr. Hall said. "We are fulfilling our promises about that branch to the letter," said the vice-president.

In the party were D. C. Coleman, vice-president of western line of the C. P. R.; Mr. Andrew Kelly, former president of the Western Canada Flour Mills; Mr. Inglis, General Superintendent Cameron and Superintendent Jamieson. P. L. Naismith, general manager of the C. P. R. department of natural resources, who accompanied the party on the motor trip from Macleod, left the party here and went back to Calgary last night.

PREACHER TRIES HIS HAND RIDING BRONK AT FAIR.

London, July 26.—Clothed in full clerical garb with the exception of his coat, Rev. Harold Hodson, a Church of England clergyman, essayed the difficult task of riding a broncho in the competitions for amateurs which took place recently at the rodeo at the Wembley Exhibition. Although the person only remained on the back of his mount for six seconds, this time is longer than most of the other amateur horsemen who have tried to make a "qualified cowboy ride" in the Stadium.

DOUGLAS BAKER BADLY BITTEN

On Friday Douglas Baker aged 8 years, was very badly chewed up by a dog belonging to young Mackenzie. It appears that the boy was watching the boys bathing, when two collies got into a scrap, and rolled down the cutbank, past the Baker lad. Before he could get away one of the animals chewed him very badly about the knee, necessitating his immediate removal to the Hospital, where the knee was medically treated by Dr. Kennedy, and ten stitches put in. The little lad was allowed to be sent home next day, and his wound is progressing satisfactorily.

UP GOES THE MILK

At a meeting of the local milk purveyors, held on Wednesday the agreement was reached by them that price of milk would be raised to nine quarts for one dollar commencing from August 1st. This increased price was decided on because of the big increase in shorts and bran prices, also the lack of pasturage on account of the drought.

COLLIER'S BIG SERIES ON THE SCREEN AT LAST

Hailed by millions of readers of Collier's Weekly as the most absorbing and entertaining stories ever written, H. C. Witwer's famous "Fighting Blood" series has been brought to life on the screen, even taking part in the filming of a typical Quaker service. Many of the scenes were shot on the oldest whaling vessel afloat today.

While a smashing, thrilling prize fight forms the climax in each of these marvelous stories, each one is primarily an intensely human and humorous romance of youth—with young Gale Galen, in the person of handsome George O'Hara, fighting for the purses that will help him to an education and aid him in his fight for the heart of a beautiful Judy Wilcox, played by Clara Horton.

Mr. Witwer himself supervised the filming of his popular stories, and the man who is rapidly becoming known as America's foremost humorist says that the "Fighting Blood" series are the best of his works to be screened. He helped the producers in their successful endeavors to catch the spirit of his stories, and the result is a series of pictures in which sparkling humor, irresistible romance, cyclonic action and crashing drama vie with each other for the delighted attention of the viewer.

All of Mr. Witwer's well-known characters are played by men and women of particular ability, with the result that the group of characters so well-liked in Collier's has been given additional power to please on the screen.

LA ROCQUE CLAIMS HE'S THE CHAMPION COMMUTER

Rod La Rocque travelled all the way from Hollywood to Paramount's Long Island studio in New York City to play one of the principal male roles in support of Gloria Swanson in her newest picture, "A Society Scandal," which is due at the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

With the completion of the picture, this prominent screen leading man straightway hopped a rattler, as the saying goes, and retraced his steps to the coast in order to start work in the forthcoming Cecil B. DeMille production of "Triumph," which will be shown at the Empress Theatre as soon as available.

La Rocque's work in "The Ten Commandments," in which he is a featured player, has more than brought him into popular favor during the past month. Ricardo Cortez and Allan Simpson have leading roles with Mr. La Rocque in support of Miss Swanson in "A Society Scandal."

EIGHTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta, Saturday, July 26, 1924.

It is now established as a practical certainty that Alberta's grain crop will be below average, taking the province as a whole. Summerfallow lands will yield from a half to a two-thirds crop in most districts, with a few localities promising very good yields. So far as the remainder of the crop area is concerned, the yield will be less than fifty per cent. crop, and in certain districts in the south-eastern part of the province there will be a very light yield.
The most favorable reports now received are from the more central and northern districts of the province, and these reports are distinctly optimistic as compared with those received a fortnight ago. Very late rains have considerably improved the situation, and the grain crops have benefited to a certain extent.
The situation with a radius of 50 to 100 miles of Edmonton and eastward along the Canadian National lines is fairly satisfactory, and some very good grain crops will be harvested in this territory, particularly from the summerfallow. Pastureage has improved and the prospects for good feed crops are much brighter. The rains have come too late, however, to save the hay crop, which is very light.
In the south-western district, where the grain crops gave promise of heavy yields a few weeks ago, there has been a period of hot, dry weather, unbroken to any appreciable extent by rain, with the result that the yield will be considerably reduced. The crops on the irrigated areas are doing well.

In the south-eastern district there will be very little grain crop harvested. In the east central districts there has been no precipitation to speak of for some considerable time, and the grain yield will be light.
Late rains have improved the feed situation in the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts and have brought along later sown grain fairly well.
Wheat, oats and barley over practically all the province are heading out. Harvesting is expected to commence about August 20 in southern districts and a week or two later in central and northern districts.

APPRECIATIVE OF MACLEOD JUBILEE

The following letter from the Secretary of "E" Division of the Royal North-West Mounted Police Veterans' Association, Calgary, speaks for the appreciation the police Veterans feel in connection with Macleod's Jubilee anniversary:—
Calgary, Alta., July 28th, 1924.
H. C. Winter Esq.,
Sec'y Macleod Jubilee
Macleod, Alta.

Dear Sir:

RE MACLEOD JUBILEE

At our regular meeting on July 25th, the subject of the success of the Macleod Jubilee came up for discussion. Attention was drawn to the immense amount of work this entailed to make it a success. We thought that the Macleod Jubilee Committee would like to know that "E" Division of this Association at least appreciated it and wish to assure you that those of us who went had a most enjoyable time.
I am sure that it has given some of our older comrades a new lease on life, it did them more good than the grafting of monkey-glands on them, one might have suspected that they had undergone this operation after seeing some of their monkey-shines while there.
I might say that we voted your committee a very hearty vote of thanks for your excellent time.
I think that it is assured that we shall have a similar Jubilee at Calgary next year, celebrating the arrival of the N.W.M.P. at Calgary in 1875, we all hope to see you all of Macleod here, when we hope to show you as good a time if not better.
Yours very sincerely
J. Nash,
Secretary-Treasurer.

HERE'S THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Yours truly,

OBITUARY

BETTY PRINGLE SUCCEUMS TO ILLNESS

On Saturday morning about 11 o'clock, the death took place of little Betty Pringle aged 3 years 6 months the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pringle of Macleod. The "wee" girl had not been feeling very well a few days previously, but nothing serious was thought of. On Wednesday the doctor was called in and found the child to be suffering from pneumonia, which quickly got worse, and she finally succumbed to the dread disease on Saturday morning. The funeral was held from the residence of the parents on Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended by the many friends and relatives of the family.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

(Conducted by Miss Alice L. Webb, State College of Washington.)

A BROKEN ENGAGEMENT
A broken engagement is always embarrassing for both the girl and the man, so their friends, if they are truly well-bred, will not ask questions, and relatives will not demand explanations. The obligations which such a situation entails are unpleasant, but it is infinitely better to go through the ordeal than to face a marriage which is certain to end in disaster.

At such a time the girl must have the utmost dignity and self-possession. She is not to make any announcement or offer any explanations. If a reception has been scheduled for her as a prospective bride, her mother sends the guests brief notes or engraved cards announcing that the engagement has been broken. The girl may confide in her intimate friends if she wishes, but if she is bitter or condemns her former suitor in any way, suggesting that he was not all that she had thought him in any way, she not only reflects on her own good judgement, but shows very poor form and lack of delicacy.

If the announcement has been made in the papers, such a note as this might be inserted (in the name of the person or persons who first made the announcement):
Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cummings announce that by mutual consent the engagement between their daughter, Dora, and Edward Frank Green is at an end.

If invitations have already been sent out, a similar announcement may be sent each intended guest, engraving on cards of the size recommended by the stationer.

If the engagement was announced only to intimate friends, the bride should send each a brief note stating that the engagement is at an end. It is much better Never to Give an Explanation. Such an occasion as this must have given rise to the proverb, "Least said, soonest mended." Even to the bride's dearest friend, the following note would be sufficient:—

Dear Irene:—

Since I wrote you last week something has happened which has made Edward and me reconsider our engagement. You will therefore please disregard the invitation for Thursday afternoon.

Ever sincerely yours,
Dora Cummings.

A YOUNG GIRL'S DRESS

In choosing her dresses the young girl should study her own personality so that every dress will add charm to her figure rather than detract from it. Her style of dress, as a consequence, should become distinctive. This does not mean that she should disregard fashion tendencies. But she should take the best points from the modern fashions and adapt them to suit the individual figure.

For example, fashion says the very short skirts are coming back. But the girl who has the misfortune to have thick ankles and too well developed legs, will make herself unpleasantly conspicuous if she tries to outdo modesty with fashion.

Some girls look better in a long-waisted dress, others in a dress with the natural waist-line or even higher. A fat girl should never wear her clothing tight, as that accentuates her unfortunate proportions. Loose, long lines tend to disguise her weight.

A little study of her figure and the fashion designs will show a girl other points. A thin girl, for instance, can wear fluffy, "fancy" things, whereas a heavy, or squarely built girl looks better usually in simpler designs, such as the tailored suits and dresses.

A RAINY DAY GAME

Here is a good game for the child—

run on a rainy day. Put about 15 different things needed for a trip, such as a clean handkerchief, brush, soap, toothbrush, clean collar, etc., into an open suitcase, and pass it around for the children, seated in a circle, to examine for about 5 minutes. Then close it, and let each one write on a slip of paper as many of the 15 as he can remember. Points might be given for each one remembered, the child making the most points being given some simple prize, as a chocolate bar.

BAKING POWDER

For cake making, baking powder should not work too quickly nor too slowly, and it should not expend its strength while in the batch, before the cake is baked. A well-balanced baking powder gives off sufficient gas in the cold mix, but does the greater part of its work during the first part of the time the cake is in the oven.

SAUCE TARTAR

"Sauce Tartar" such as is served with fish is a combination of chopped pickles, olives, and capers with a salad dressing, preferably a good, smooth mayonnaise dressing.

MASSED MEETING OF INSURANCE AGENTS

Insurance Agents from all over southern Alberta met at the offices of the K.A.Y. here on Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of organizing against the unlicensed curb agent or bootlegger, who so unscrupulously goes about writing up hail and fire insurance.

W. Gell of Granum, was appointed Chairman, and Arthur Young of Macleod secretary for the meeting.

The Chairman explained the idea of the meeting, and asked for suggestions from those in attendance. Mr. Ferras of Nanton stated that nothing could be done unless done by legislation, and the only way to get legislation on these matters was for the bona fide insurance agents, to band together and petition the Government for protection against indiscriminate issuing of licenses, and the stopping of unlicensed agents writing business.

The Chairman was of the opinion that the bona fide agents, should have a voice in the granting of licenses, and should be able to vote on any candidate making application for license to sell insurance.

On the motion of George Scougall seconded by A. F. Grady the annual fees of the new organization would be five dollars.

The Secretary was instructed to write all Insurance Agents in southern Alberta and call another meeting when the matter would be more fully discussed, and further come into. This is the first meeting of its kind to be held in Alberta and the matters discussed are very important ones for all Insurance Agents.

CLARESHOLM HOTEL. MAN FACES CHARGE

Following the dismissal of a charge of theft of beer laid by him against a Russian, Fred Melnyk, James Bell, proprietor of the Wilton Hotel, of Clareholm, was summoned to appear in court on the information of Sgt. Hildson, of the A. P. P., with the case before the court there for the sale of beer to Melnyk. The case was remanded to Tuesday, the 29th. At the trial of Melnyk Bell swore that on July 20th he had hidden in the pantry of the hotel a barrel of beer in pint bottles and on Tuesday, the 22nd, he found that the barrel was empty. He had spoken to Melnyk about the matter and he denied having taken the beer, stating that the beer he had in his room in the Clareholm hotel was obtained from Macleod on a permit. Alf McAlister, chauffeur of the Clareholm garage, testified to driving Melnyk on the night of the 21st to Railway street and stopping opposite the Bank of Commerce, where he got out and put two boxes of beer and a dishpan full in the rear of the car, and was then driven to Reynold's farm. Mr. Reynold's deposed to finding a quantity of beer in the bunkhouse. A hired man named Wm. Garus, corroborated the statement, and on being further questioned admitted that he had been

On July 29th, 60,000 salmon or lake trout fry will be received from the Banff fish hatcheries. These fish fry will be planted in the main lake. If you become disabled what about your Life Insurance?

"I HAVE always hesitated about increasing my life insurance because of the responsibility I would have to assume for the premiums," said a man who typifies a considerable class. "I always pictured myself in some situation, perhaps disabled through an accident, where I might be unable to pay the premiums."

But you may now insure against this possibility of future inability to pay your premiums. For a small additional charge the Mutual Life of Canada will issue your policy subject to a clause which provides that in case of total and permanent disability the Company will waive further premiums.

That is not all. Upon approval of proofs of disability, the Company will not only waive future premiums, but will pay $10 a month per $1,000 of assurance, so long as total disability continues.

And further, if the policyholder should die by accident the Company will pay double the amount of life insurance named in the policy. These new clauses are optional in all old or new Mutual policies if assured be over 15 or under 55 years of age.

LITTLE BO-PEEP AND LITTLE

BOY BLUE

By SeeKay

Little Bo-Peep has lost her sheep,
And doesn't know where to find them.
Leave them alone, and they'll come home,
And bring their tales behind them.
Little Boy Blue come blow up your horn,
The sheep's in the meadow, the cows
in the corn,
Where is that boy who looks after the sheep,
Why, he's under the haystack fast asleep.
I never had the slightest idea of ever associating Bo-Peep and Boy Blue together until I received a message from Mother Hubbard in answer to an enquiry I had made, regarding the losing of Bo-Peep's sheep. I was always under the impression that Bo-Peep was a dear little shepherd girl, and that Boy
Blue was a lazy good-for-nothing boy.
But Mother Hubbard told me I was entirely wrong, and if I wanted to find out the real truth I would have to go over to Green Field pasture about two o'clock in the afternoon on a bright, warm, sunny day.
About half past two one beautiful, hot summer's afternoon, I walked over to the pasture, expecting to see Little Bo-Peep with her sheep, but instead of that I couldn't see a soul anywhere, when just as I was thinking Mother Hubbard was playing a joke on me, I heard a rather soft sleepy voice say: "Oh, my—the sheep have all gone what shall I do, what shall I do?"
I looked around and there lying neath the shade of a thick hedge,
was a very gentle looking collie dog.
I asked her what was the trouble and who she was, and she replied:
"I'm Peep, and look after the sheep of my Master, Farmer Jones, but durand it seems funny but every time I take a nap, those sheep stray away, and that's not all, as soon as they get home, they go and blast out all their tales to the Master, the silly woolly things.""But," I said, "I thought your name was Bo-Peep?" the collie turned up her lip and grinned.Well you see its like this, when we are gathering the sheep, Master says to me: "Fetch 'em bow, Peep, bow,"—and as I bark the sheep run faster and I suppose that's how the little folks got my name as Bo-Peep.""I understand that," I replied, "but I always thought that the tails referred to in the rhyme were the tails of the sheep.""Oh, no," was the reply. "It means the little tattling of the sheep to the Master.""Well, I suppose I must go and find my brother, and get him to get busy, and get after those sheep, they're far more frightened of him than they are of me," said Peep, and with this she trotted off in the direction of the hay-cock.Full of curiosity I followed, and as we turned the corner of the haycock, I heard a very low deep growl, and looking underneath I saw a big blue lurcher dog, half collie and half hound, he had a white chest and half white head, with four white feet. We had awakened him out of a very deep sleep, and evidently he was not in the best of humors.Peep called him out, and introduced him to me as Boy Blue, her half-brother, who looked after the cattle of Farmer Jones. I told Boy Blue

I was glad to make his acquaintance, and I apologized for disturbing him from his slumbers.He said: "That's all right, I shouldn't have been asleep anyway, only I don't get much sleep at night as the game-keeper takes me on his rounds through the game preserves, looking out for poachers, and therefore I take a sleep during the day. Hello, where are the cows gone, in that corn again, eh? Well, I'll soon get 'em out of that, and I suppose you want me to fetch your sheep too, eh?"The last remark he made to Peep, who acknowledged this with a nod of her pretty head.

Off went Boy Blue and in a short time we heard his long wail, like the sound of a hunter's horn, telling us he had found the cattle and sheep, and was bringing them back.We waited for quite a time when finally the cattle and sheep came back on the run with Boy Blue barking and snapping at their heels.He turned the sheep over to Peep, and then making himself comfortable under the haycock asked me if he could tell me anything more, before he went off to sleep again.I told him no, but I complimented him very highly on his work as a cattle and sheep dog, he grunted out a growly thanks, and then fell off to sleep.

I turned to Peep and we walked to go to sleep.

I noticed that every one of them were bleating and their tongues lolling out, and it was easy enough for Farmer Jones to have noticed they had been wandering away, and had been brought back on the run.Peep said: "There you are, didn't I tell you those sheep would bring their tales behind them, they always do, the silly things."And as I wandered back to the lodge, I couldn't help but think what tell-tales those sheep were, because after all both Boy Blue and Peep were not such bad dogs, and the sheep had no right to stray away at all, no

"Mart" Thomson, the renowned broncho twister of Macleod, and one of the star performers at London's great exposition, returned home this week, looking fine and fit after his sojourn in the world's capital. Mart is tickled to death to get back to the prairies. He claims that shut in life on the other side doesn't appeal to him one little bit. He had a fine time but in his own words, "He'd hate like to live there."

The Fashion Billiard Parlors have challenged the guests of the Macleod G. W. V. A. at the Club Rooms. It will be a six team affair of 150 up, to total number of points winning. The turn games at the Fashion Parlors will be played the following Tuesday, August 26th. This match is causing quite a lot of interest in town, as the "doubtable" "Spud" thinks his "Hex-nal" aggregation are unbeatable, but the Vets have several dark horses who have not yet been expanded to any great extent. The result of the first contest is anxiously looked forward to by all local billiardists.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MACLEOD JUBILEE

Thanks to the movies and to modern fiction by certain outside writers, the Canadian Mounted Police no longer go their path of duty silently and unknown. The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of this great force which took place at Macleod, Alberta, this month stirred interest far and wide for the red riders of the plains.

Macleod was well chosen for the pageants and sports for it was to that point, on the Old Man river, not far from the Montana boundary, that the bulk of the original force of 250 men who left Toronto in June, 1874, were destined. There was much smuggling over the border at that time, and though there was but sparse population on the Canadian plains it was desirable to establish order and avoid the lawlessness which prevailed in the early days of the American West. Part of the men went north to Fort Edmonton and the remainder reached Fort Whooop-up, near the boundary of Montana, but there being no habitation here they moved on and established Fort Macleod, which was named after Lieut.-Col. Macleod, their commanding officer.

In the Edmonton contingent was a young officer known in later years as Major-General Sir Sam. Steele, while at Fort Macleod was a young Irish adventurer who as Sir Cecil Denny was among the handful of veterans of the "74 at the celebration. Sir Fredrick Haultain, Chief Justice of Saskatchewan, was a noted figure at the re-union. It has been men of this high calibre, courageous and fond of adventure, who have done so much to keep high the standard of the redcoats of the plains. Lonely settlers far from town and their fellows have felt, during all these years of the making of the West, the security inspired by the sight of the solitary horseman as he passed on his way on the far horizon. The isolation of the settlements made for boldness by lawless men, who were quickly restrained or driven off by the force whose motto was "Get your man." The Indians learned to respect the redcoats and in early days heard of the Great Mother, Queen Victoria, across the seas, who would preserve justice if they obeyed her laws.

The life of the Mounted Police was often as hard and dreary as that of an exile. There were long, hard rides in all kinds of weather, and at evening, with horse tethered by some stream, there was nothing to do but lie down and watch the stars and dream of home. Then there would come a storm. One of these was thus described by a "Mountie":

The rain came down in bucketfuls. We were compelled to rise and roll up our blankets and hold on to the pole and skirts of the tent to prevent it being blown away. The level space outside was soon changed into a lake, and with every flash we could see our poor horses standing in a sheet of water, with their backs humped up and turned toward the pitiless storm.

Hardships have been lessened as the prairies have been further occupied, but the great service of the pioneers for law and order in laying foundations for good government can never be overestimated.
